- learn to debate, present, negotiate and build rapport with others,
- give and receive constructive evaluation,
- learn clear and efficient communication strategies,
- become a sophisticated purveyor of ideas, and
- speaking in a manner that leaves a lasting impression.

WEEK NO: 7- SELF- INTRODUCTION: It is a kind of icebreaker and students presented themselves in the best light. It helped as an insight into their personality. It is extremely important to create an excellent self-introduction to make a good first impression. It was quite precise yet holistic.

WEEK NO: 9 & 10- EXTEMPORE: It is an impromptu speech with clarity of thought. It helped to think and develop presence of mind, pushed one to generate ideas, learn time management, improved logical thinking and reasoning ability, and made the students address and analyse the issue on the spot. The essential requisite is to deliver an effective and impeccable speech successfully without any prior preparation. Students showcased their confidence and efficiency with eloquence. It enabled them to think out of the box and off the feet.

WEEK NO: 12 & 13- DEBATE enabled the students to put forward their perspective in analysing a situation of social cause be it in favour or against. It helped them to develop the identity as a debater, a sense of ownership of the world and empowerment as they will know specific domestic and global issues, and the ways in which government can solve the problem. They learn agree to disagree in a social way of expressing their point of view on a topic.

WEEK NO: 13, 14 & 15- DECLAMATION is redelivering an important or famous speech impersonating the original speaker. The purpose was to have the students directly experience the power of a masterfully crafted language. It helped to improve diction and stellar presentation. It is an artistic form of speech and a dramatic oration designed to express through articulation, emphasis and gesture of the complete sense of the text being conveyed. It was a highly revered experience for students.

In this competitive world where excellence is cliché, anyone would wish to have an upper hand at being world-ready.

WE ARE IN FOR A REWARDING EXPERIENCE...!!
